

Five Must Know Ab Exercises
“Quick And Easy To Flatten, Tone, And Tighten Your Tummy”

Dear future client,

This is the Ebook that you requested. I have put together this Ebook as a free service to anyone searching for the truth about fitness and weight loss success. The five ab exercises in this ebook can help you achieve the mid section of your dreams. These are the very same exercises that I use with my most successful clients.

In addition, I have added your name to my exclusive health and fitness newsletter that's packed with valuable tips, strategies, recipes, and articles all geared to help you achieve your desired fitness results. Your newsletter will be delivered every month right to your email inbox, and if you ever want to stop receiving it just simply click the unsubscribe button at the bottom of every email.

So without further ado, I give you the five most sought after ab exercises that will change your life. Read on and discover these five gems.

Attaining a trim and toned midsection is by far the number one fitness goal held by most people. There is just something so attractive about a small waist that appeals to the masses. The good news is that, no matter what you have been told, YOU CAN HAVE THE ABS OF YOUR DREAMS!

Before we jump right into the 5 Golden Exercises, we need to get a few things out on the table. Listen up here, because the next few paragraphs are going to make or break your tummy tightening dreams.

While ab exercises are great for strengthening and toning your abdominal muscles, solely doing these exercises will not make your abs flat. In fact, getting that perfect midsection is a process that takes more than a little time sweating in the gym. It takes hard work, and a game plan.

The only way to washboard abs is to lose the body fat that is currently residing in that area. The way to lose body fat is to:

- 1) Participate in regular cardiovascular exercise.
- 2) Maintain a full body strength training routine.
- 3) Eat a nutritious, calorie specific, healthy diet.

Did you get all that? It may seem overwhelming at first, but the key here is to change your lifestyle to one that promotes weight loss rather than fat storage.

So you know that you need a weight loss promoting lifestyle in order to melt away the pounds, but how about those 5 golden exercises?

The key that makes these exercises golden is the fact that, when done together, they use all of the muscles in your abdominal region. Oftentimes people will only do crunches, and while these are great, they are neglecting to strengthen the other 75% of their midsection.

There are four basic types of abdominal exercises.

- 1) Ones that focus on your upper abs
- 2) Ones that focus on your lower abs
- 3) Ones that focus on your obliques (sides)
- 4) Ones that focus on your entire core

It is very important that you do at least one of each exercise type every time that you workout. This will give you the six-pack look that you are going for!

Now on to the good stuff...

Exercise #1: The Crunch

The basic crunch should be a staple in your arsenal of abdominal exercises. This classic movement concentrates on your upper abs.

Starting Position: Lie on your back on the mat with your knees bent and feet flat on the floor. Support your head by placing your hands behind it, and keep your eyes turned up towards the ceiling throughout the entire movement.

Movement: Exhale as you raise your upper body up a few inches off of the mat by contracting your abs. Be sure to keep your back straight and avoid pulling yourself up with your hands. Hold yourself in this contracted position for a moment before slowly lowering yourself back down to the starting position.

Exercise #2: The Oblique Crunch

The Oblique Crunch does just what its name proclaims – works on your obliques. Make sure to do an even amount of crunches on each side for a symmetrical look.

Starting Position: Lie on an exercise mat with your knees bent and hands behind your head. Lift your left leg so that your knee is at a 90 degree angle, and the lower part of your leg is parallel with the floor.

Movement: Exhale as you bring your right elbow in towards your left knee, while squeezing your abs. Inhale as you slowly extend your leg back out to the starting position.

Exercise #3: The Exercise Ball Crunch

Exercise Ball Crunches are great for your entire core. All of your abs are used in the stabilization process as you crunch.

Starting Position: Lie with your upper back on an exercise ball and your feet flat on the ground in front of you. Support your head by placing your hands behind it, and keep your eyes turned up towards the ceiling throughout the entire movement.

Movement: Exhale as you raise your upper body up a few inches off of the ball by contracting your abs. Be sure to keep your back straight and avoid pulling yourself up with your hands. Hold yourself in this contracted position for a moment before slowly lowering yourself back down to the starting position.

Exercise #4: The Toe Touch

This is another great exercise for your upper abs, however, you can easily make this exercise more challenging by lowering your legs with each repetition. This will recruit the use of your lower abs as well as your upper abs and will make for a more strenuous workout.

Starting Position: Lie on an exercise mat flat on your back with your legs up in the air and your arms outstretched above your head.

Movement: Exhale as you raise your arms up and reach your toes. Hold yourself in this contracted position for a moment, and then inhale as you slowly lower your arms back down until they almost touch the mat. Repeat your required repetitions before allowing your legs to touch back down onto the mat.

Exercise #5: The Hanging Leg Raise

While this exercise is very challenging and not recommended for beginners, it is very effective. It focuses on your lower abs, tightening that stubborn area.

Starting Position: Position yourself in the roman chair by gripping the handles and placing your elbows against the pads, or grip overhead handles and allow yourself to hang.

Movement: Exhale as you raise your knees up towards your chest. Remember to keep your back flat against the back pad, or if hanging, try to keep yourself from swinging. Hold yourself in this contracted position for a moment, and then inhale as you slowly return your legs back down to the starting position.

So there they are...the top five exercises that will take the waste off your waist. Is it really that simple? Yes it is, if you follow a structured program designed by a knowledgeable personal trainer.

How do you find a personal trainer who can help you achieve the results that you want? Well, you've come to the right place. All you have to do is contact me and we can work together to get you the body of your dreams!

Remember to check your email for my health and fitness newsletter packed with proven tips and strategies to help you get the most out of your fitness program.